REFLECTION: -

In today's Gospel, Jesus suggests to his disciples that they cross the lake to the other side of the Sea of Galilee. The lake is normally calm, but because of its position – about seven hundred feet below sea level – it is subject to sudden windstorms which sweep down from the surrounding hills, rush through the narrow gorges that break upon the lake, and whip up the saucer-like sea. This is what happens in today's gospel: the rapid change of weather causes the waves to break into the boat so that it starts to fill. In the midst of this chaos, Jesus is fast asleep on the small bench at the back of the boat, his head on a cushion. The disciples have no intention of letting Jesus doze through a disaster. Jesus wakes up, rebukes the wind and commands the sea to be quiet. After rebuking the tempest, Jesus rebukes his disciples for their large fear and little faith. In the midst of the calm there arises the central question about Jesus: "Who then is this?" The question about Jesus' identity arises from seeing what Jesus actually does. The question is posed; the answer, however, will be understood only after the resurrection. We believe with St. Mark that the answer to the question "Who is this man?" is that he is the Son of God. This proclamation of the identity of Jesus is at the heart of our Christian creed. But the question remains whether our faith in Jesus will stay with us even during threat and danger and storm. The disciples of Jesus recognised that, in the midst of difficulties, the presence of Jesus accompanies us on our journey to God and salvation. The disciples' experience equipped them to face violent death and martyrdom because they believed that Jesus is Lord of all chaos. This is our faith: that there is no storm that will not be stilled at last by the peace of his presence.
